The Anaheim University, California, USA organizes an Online Certificate in Teaching English to Young Learners (TEYL) (a 15-week online certificate program for English teachers and aspiring teachers who will be teaching English to children between three (3) to fifteen (15) years of age at the pre-school, kindergarten, elementary or junior high school level) and Online TESOL Certificate (TESOL) (a 15-week online certificate program for English teachers who will be teaching non-native English speakers of any age particularly for those sixteen (16) years of age and above).

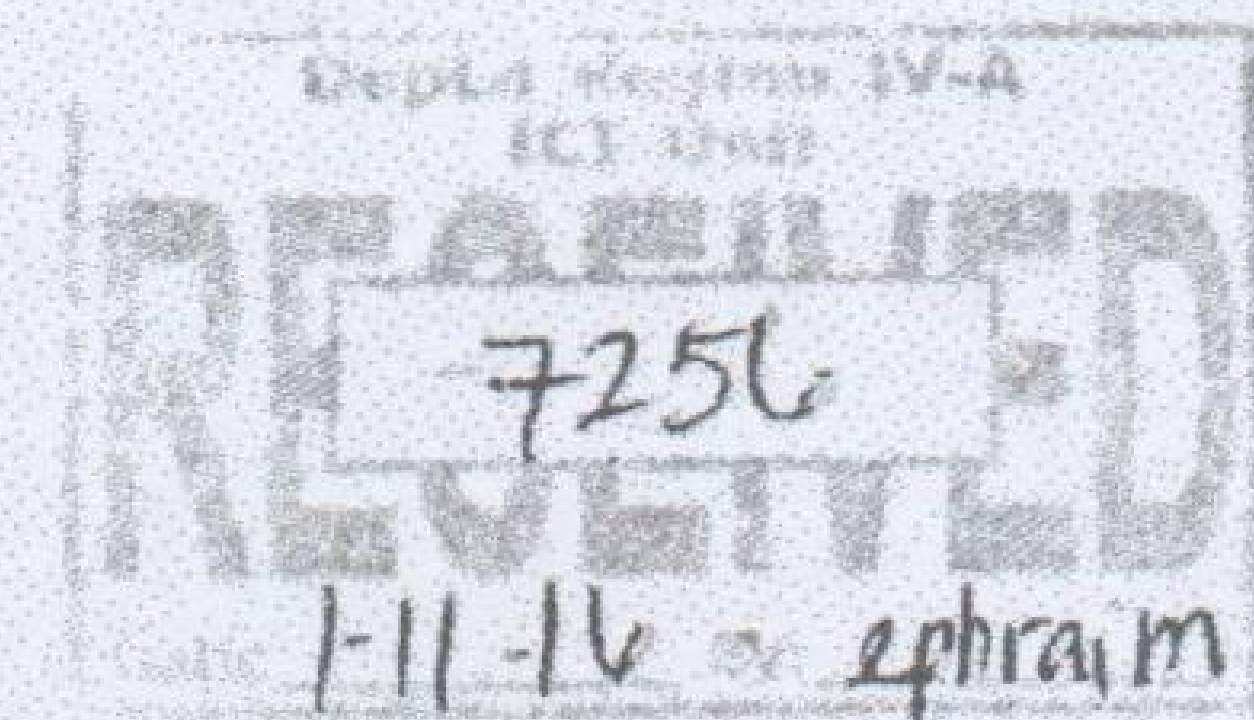

The TEYL/TESOL certificate program goals aim to:

- a. introduce TESOL/TEYL theory, research and practice to relatively inexperienced or unqualified teachers that is accessible and that is supported by a wide range of teaching materials, teaching ideas and classroom extracts;
- b. encourage self direction on the part of students through the provision of follow up resources and ideas;
- c. develop the necessary knowledge, attitudes and skills to enable those students who desire it to go on higher study;
- d. present content through a range of print, audio and video media; and
- e. foster the development of higher level thinking skills such as the critical evaluation of pedagogical materials.

The Anaheim University also offers graduate studies including Doctor of Education in TESOL, Master of Arts in TESOL, and Graduate Diploma in TESOL.

For further clarification and coordination, your office may get in touch with Anaheim University through the following contact persons and their respective email addresses:

OVERVIEW

- Complete Anaheim University's online TESOL certification program in 15 weeks.
- Begin Soon: New courses start on the first Monday of every month.
- Link practice to theory and research through instruction in Exploring Skills, Exploring Language and Supporting the Learning Process.
- Learn critical areas of practical language teaching techniques, strategies, and tips.
- Take part in daily online free-time discussions with instructor & classmates worldwide, watch Dr. David Nunan's online video lectures, and complete online quizzes

The objectives of the TESOL Certificate program are:

- To introduce TESOL theory, research and practice to relatively inexperienced or unqualified teachers that is accessible and that is supported by a wide range of teaching materials, teaching ideas and classroom extracts
- To encourage self-direction on the part of students through the provision of follow up resources and ideas
- To develop the necessary knowledge, attitudes and skills to enable those students who desire it to go on to higher study
- To present content through a range of print, audio and video media
- To foster the development of higher level thinking skills such as the critical evaluation of pedagogical materials

Upon successful completion of the TESOL Certificate program, students will be able to:

- discuss some of the research findings that have influenced language teaching methodology.
- create instructional sequences that incorporate the pretask, task, and follow-up cycle.
- demonstrate familiarity with a range of techniques for teaching listening, speaking, reading, writing, pronunciation, and grammar.
- demonstrate familiarity with cultural patterns at the linguistic, behavior, and content levels, and discuss how cross-cultural (mis)communication occurs.
- design and edit language teaching dialogues and other spoken materials so that they are natural and realistic and focus more on discourse.
- understand how different forms of content-based instruction apply to different student populations and instructional settings.
- devise ways to adapt or supplement an activity for a specific group of learners by introducing supplementary material.
- explain the importance of consciousness-raising activities, receptive activities, and productive activities when teaching about language differences.
- explain how Computer-Assisted Language Learning (CALL) can be used as whole class and small group activities.
- identify major learning styles and strategies and explain why they are important considerations in second language teaching.
- organize a project or series of classroom activities so that the students make choices and decisions about their learning.
- develop classroom assessment tasks that are linked to learning outcomes.

The 15-week Online Certificate in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) program offers students the opportunity of developing a solid pedagogical foundation through instruction in the following areas:

1. Language teaching methodology
2. Listening
3. Speaking
4. Reading
